

Stephanie Hutton specializes in providing the youth with the tools they need to change their way of thinking in order to live a clear and focused life. She got her start working in her church as a youth leader, which later on she became a pastor's wife. With duties such as being over the women's department at her ministry, hosting book clubs, bible studies, and social gatherings, the women always left empowered and wanting more of what life offered. Stephanie clearly knew that her calling was to push and equip people that she comes in contact with to live a happy, carefree life and to make sure they grow closer to God.

“After seeing how our young girls are today”, Stephanie realized she needed to stop complaining and do something about the problem. With her coaching and teaching skills, she works with teenagers and young adults, each one on their level to bring out their creativity. In her mentoring program sessions the youth are given a plan to put into action that is carried out by each one of them. Finishing her program, a once fearful, timid, unfocused, confused teen will be clear on their purpose, and have a brighter future living a life fearless, purpose driven, and mostly on their way to living successful.

Stephanie Hutton has started a mentoring program called TransformingUNow. One on One session which is mentors to teenagers that are having personal issues that is keeping them from moving forward in a positive way. Anger, fear, low self-esteem, disrespectful, bullying, etc. all of these characteristics in which leads to a life of destruction.
